Numb. 1801

The London Gazette.

Published by Authority.

From Monday February 19. to Thursday February 22. 1682.

Copenhagen, Feb. 9.

THE Sieur Lemfort, a Gentleman of good Quality in this Country, and whose Father is at present in a very eminent Employment in Norway, was some days since condemned to die, for having sent a Challenge to the Heer Heugh, Ambassador from this Crown to the Most Christian King, as he passed through Flanders in his return home; his Judges declaring, that he had not only violated the Right of Nations, but likewise his Allegiance and Duty to his Prince, by offering so high an Indignity to him in the Person of his Ambassador; and because the said Gentleman is fled, he will be Executed in Effigie. The new Levies are continued here. The Differences between the King of Denmark and the Duke of Holstein are in the same state.

Genoua, Feb. 10. This Morning arrived here the Rebecca of Plimouth James Bartlet Commander, from O-Porto and Alicant. Since our last sailed from hence the Exchange for the Riviera, to lade Oyl. In Port are the Friendship, Captain Shafto, bound for Venice, the Phenix for London, and the Lyon and the Hope.

Vienna, Feb. 11. We are informed, that there was a Debate on Thursday last in the Emperors Councel, concerning his Imperial Majesties Journey to Ratisbonne, and that his Imperial Majesty resolved, seeing all the Ecclesiastical, and two of the Secular Electors have excused their repairing thither in the present conjuncture of Affairs, and that on the other side his Presence will very much quicken the Preparations for the approaching Campagne, to remain here, at least till his Army takes the Field. The Palatine, and some of the great Men of Hungary, who are now here, have frequent Conferences with the Imperial Ministers concerning the Affairs of that Kingdom, and among others things, it has been proposed to them, that the Emperor in stead of obliging the Nobility and Gentry of Hungary to take the Field, and to serve in their Persons in the War against the Turks, will be content that they contribute a Sum of Money for the raising 10 or 12000 Men, which will be an Ease to them, and a Service to the Emperor. From Hungary we have Advice, That the Plague being broke out at Cassaw, Count Teckeley has removed the Assembly of the States from thence to Eperies; That he has issued new Summons to those that were absent to repair to the Dyet, and in case they will not, has Commanded them to leave the Country, and declared, that he will otherwise proceed against them as Enemies; That there is a Turkish Chiaus at the Dyet, that Count Teckeley Treats him with all the Respect imaginable, and gives him the Precedence on all Publick Occasions, that he is present in all their great meetings, and that nothing is done without his Concurrence and Approbation; That Zatmar is closely blocked up, and that Count Teckely will not suffer any Provisions to be carried thither, and that the Grand Vizier is expected at Belgrade about the latter end of this Month. We have not in a long while had any news from the Count de Caprara, the Imperial Minister at the Port, which is very much wondred at. The Count de Lamberg is returned hither from Berlin, where he has resided some time on the part of the Emperor.

Vienna, Feb. 14. The Ratifications of the Treaty now lately concluded between the Emperor and the Elector of Bavaria have been exchanged, and the Baron de Leydel is thereupon gone home, having been presented before his departure with the Emperors Picture set with Diamonds. The Isle of Schutz, in which are about 30 Market Towns and Villages, is quite abandoned by the Country People, who, it seems, were not able to live any longer in the continual fear they were in of the Turks; or else could not bear the Company of the Imperial Troops that were sent thither for their Protection. From Poland we have Advice, That the Dyet was opened at Warsaw; That the Count de Wallastain, the Emperors Ambassador, was arrived there, and had had his Publick Audiences, and several Conferences with the Ministers at that Court; That the King of Poland seemed very well disposed to enter into the League proposed by him, but that most of the great Men were engaged in a contrary Interest, and did oppose it; so that he was like to advance but slowly in his Negotiation. From Hungary they write, That Count Teckeley had ordered the Estates of such of the Nobility and Gentry, that would not acknowledge him, to be Confiscated; And at the same time his Secretary, who lately arrived here, assures the Imperial Ministers, that his Master does sincerely desire to accommodate matters with the Emperor, and that he does all he can to prolong the Peace between his Imperial Majesty and the Turks. The President of the Council of War will part hence in few days for Raab, and General Rabata is ordered to go and visit the fortified Places in Croatia. Some days since an Express was sent to the Count de Caprara, the Emperors Minister at the Port; and the Baron de Sponara is dispatched with new Instructions to Count Teckeley, which makes us believe there is a Negotiation still on foot, and we are willing to hope it will end in an Accommodation between the Emperor and the Hungarians, and a prolongation of the Peace with the Turks.

Ratisbonne, Feb. 15. Nothing of moment has passed in the Dyet since our last. The Electoral Colledge and that of the Princes cannot yet agree concerning their Treating with the Count de Gravel, They both adhere to their former Conclusions. The Electoral Colledge would Treat upon the French Kings Proposals, but that of the Princes would